Summer fun in Nelson

Although traditionally a winter pastime, golf really should have always been a summer game.

There are more hours in the day to do it, you don't need to hump around a mountain of insulated layers in case the weather packs in and, best of all, the ball flies further and rolls longer. If you want to play in the sun, then look no further than Nelson's warm, settled weather with sunshine hours that, by New Zealand standards, are off the chart.

Nestled alongside the shore of Tasman Bay you'll find the Nelson Golf Club, an 18 hole championship course only 10 minutes from the centre of downtown Nelson and virtually next door to beautiful Tahunanui Beach with all its handy accommodation.

The challenging layout hosted the 2008 Toro New Zealand Interprovincial Championships and each Labour Weekend the New Zealand Mixed Foursomes event is held on the course.

No matter the state of your game, there's more than enough course to keep you on your toes. Should your game not be of 'championship' standard, then there's a large practice area with driving nets, qualified NZPGA coaches and a fully stocked pro shop where you can buy or hire all the tools of the trade.

With fantastic views across the bay, yet being handily situated to both town and its accommodation, the club really does make a great little spot. But arguably the best thing about the Nelson Golf Club is that it takes absolutely no notice of the game's reputation for being, at times and in certain places, a little elitist.

The Nelson club is a place for all people. And this makes sense as golf has long been associated with socialising and the café and bar, or the 19th, is not restricted to just members of the Nelson Golf Club; the general public is welcome anytime to enjoy the friendly hospitality and fantastic views.

It doesn't matter if you're after a quiet chat with friends or a buffet banquet — you can be accommodated and will be warmly welcomed.

Idyllically set on the course's picturesque edge, with spacious decks facing the Mt Arthur Ranges, the club's café and bar is the perfect location for business conferences, family events, corporate dinners, end of year functions or an intimate wedding party. Whether you're a serious gamer, casual enthusiast or just dropping in to make use of a great venue in a wonderful setting, then the Nelson Golf Club has got it covered.
